1.) Unfinished Business

- Farmers Market
Steve has been speaking with Connie regarding possibly having the market in the back municipal parking lot on Saturday mornings. Stone Harbor has the help of one of its Committee members in running their market. Steve spoke with Mr. Mattera who owns Mattera Farms and he has told Steve he will be the manager if he can have a spot for a stand at our market with no charge. Steve does not feel that would be a problem. Mr. Mattera does not feel that the 4H Fair Grounds is a good place to have the market as he feels it is too far out.
Steve said Stone Harbor charges each vendor $300 for 13 weeks. He feels one price for all vendors would be the best solution. He has sent out 18 emails to vendors to see who is still interested in participating. He said he has received the rules and regulations of a couple of the farmers markets in our area and is waiting to get a copy of Stone Harbors. He is then going to review all of them and see what we can incorporate into our own set of rules and regulations. We discussed of possibly holding the farmers market at the sports field in Rio Grande. Going to do further checking into this.
- Clean Up Day
Vilma has been placing the Clean Up Day posters around the area. Still has a few places to hit. Steve said he spoke with Larissa and she informed him she has been in touch with all that she had contacted last year. Is waiting to hear back as to who will be participating. Dawn will be giving the King Center, the Goshen Complex, the Senior Center and public works posters to post in their buildings.

2.) New Business

- ANJEC Dues
Dawn spoke with the members regarding the ANJEC dues that are due. Members agreed to pay dues. Vilma Pombo and Lillian Armstrong are already enrolled privately. Dues come to $290.00 for 7 people.

3.) Reports

Vilma handed out some literature that she had. She also announced that there was an Environmental Work Shop Program on Saturday, March 15th from 9 AM to 1:30 PM at the Atlantic County Utility Authority if anyone was interested in attending. The charge is $35 for ANJEC members. She also said that Earth Day this year is being held Saturday, April 26th from 10:00 AM to 4:00 PM at the CMC Park and Zoo.
